Dispute Resolution

Varun Pathak is a Partner in the Firm's Dispute Resolution practice based in Delhi, bringing close to 18 years of robust experience in disputes and advisory work.

He is an Advocate-on-Record at the Supreme Court of India and holds an LL.M. in Corporate and Commercial Laws from the London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE). He graduated with an LL.B. (Hons.) from Amity Law School (Guru Gobind Singh Indraprastha University), New Delhi, and was admitted to the Bar in 2007.

Varun's practice spans a broad spectrum of complex commercial and regulatory disputes, both in litigation and arbitration. He has deep expertise in constitutional and administrative law, information technology laws (including an in-dept understanding of data privacy and confidentiality), and general corporate and regulatory advisory.

He has represented clients in several high-stakes and high-profile matters involving constitutional challenges, competition law, technology and privacy issues, power sector regulations, shareholder disputes, contract enforcement, and domestic and internal arbitrations.

Varun has successfully acted in high-profile disputes involving constitutional and administrative law issues, competition law, technology and privacy laws, power sector regulations, contract enforcement, shareholder litigation, and commercial arbitrations. He has appeared as counsel in numerous reported and unreported judgments before courts and tribunals, advising multinational corporations, financial institutions, public sector undertakings, and regulatory bodies on contentious matters.

With a high percentage of success in tariff and regulatory matters, he has advised the Central Government and the Governments of Haryana, Maharashtra, and Gujarat on several contentious issues and has been involved in various policymaking initiatives of the Government of India in the power sector. He represented the Governments of Maharashtra and Gujarat in the coal allocation matters before the Supreme Court. Besides representing various PSUs and government-promoted companies in the energy sector, he has frequently advised clients on regulatory issues and has represented them before electricity regulatory commissions and appellate tribunals.

Varun also routinely advises multinational technology companies on various aspects of information technology laws, with a focus on intermediary liability, data protection, privacy, confidentiality, and regulatory compliance. Recognized as a seasoned practitioner with a deep understanding of technology laws and policy, he was appointed as amicus
